Under Earl Wagner's control the Senators uncorked themselves yesterday afternoon at National Park, and played a game of ball that was worth pulling a rowboat two miles up stream to see.

It was a refreshing event, even though the opposing team was the tail-end aggregation. It was a credit to the home clu to shut the visitors out. Not a man faltered in his duty, and it seemed that Senatorial courtesy, which had been so long observed. was thrown aside for a day, and the Statesmen did a turn for their constituents, and they did it well. Every climax was given liberal applause, and the new Senator, Thomas Tucker, led the others in the battle DeMontreville must have drank at the cuntain of a new clixir, for he trod the ground with an agile step; and O'Brien was like a stone wall. Selbach's appear-ance was like the coming of a cool shower on a warm evening in August, and his familiar "I have it" in left field was glad tidings to the 2,000 fatthful fans who go to National Park to see a game of ball no matter who the vistors are. The other Statesmen handled themselves n a style which is sure to win a good word from the disgruntled cranks, and at the hat they were superb. Donebue, who but in their lot on the outskirts of the City of Churches, was easily found, and fourtee singles were registered against him with the regularity of a league turnstile. There was nothing sloppy about the work of Von der Ahe's aggregation of mixed suits. Their fielding was faultless and sharp. But they were weak at the bat. Mercer held them down to four hits in the first eight innings. In the ninth they made runs being scored, and for the first time

Lally is an in major league fashion, and got one of the half dozen hits made off Mercer Michael Grady, the ex-Quaker, was full of helaughingly asked the Ohio twirler whether that was all the speed he had. Hallman, another of the cast off Philadelphians, covered much ground at second, and Hartman, who is spending his first life in the National League, was as familar at third as any old timer. Donohue was on the rubber, and his quick fielding was a feature of the game. Turner made two sensational catches, one of which had be home run. The Senators gave a regular commence ment day exercise in the way of base Tucker stretched his elongated form two times to second, and he was safe on each occasion. Brown, Farrell and Mercer respectively showed Morgan Murphy that his arm was without its cunning.

Charley Farrell can still be called "The Duke," if the name carries any significance. He caught Turner at second with Harley on third, and when the George town lad tried to steal home on the play DeMontreville threw accurately, and the young man perished at the plate. It was a play that is seen only once in a very great Tom Brown walked to first in the Initial nning, and at once set the pace by steal ing second. Selbach and DeMontreville ent out, and Farrell singled. The latter followed his leader and purioined second.

In the third Farrell cracked out a single over second, and was advanced by Tucker getting a pass to first. Then Rellly elever-ly sacrificed, and the two men scored on Abbey's single. Mercer started the third with his sec single, and Brown followed with a safe one. Setbach sacrificed and Mercer scored on DeMontreville's out to Lally. Farrell walked to first, but he and Brown were

The hit and run scheme was put in active operation in the ninth, when, after Brown hit safely, he started to steal, and

They Win Eleven of Twelve High School Athletic Events.

CURTISS' FINE PERFORMANCE

He Carries Off Three Firsts for the Centrals and Breaks a Record. A Fine Day for the Sports, But the Track Was Very Poor-The Summaries.

The sturdy young athletes of Central Bigh School demonstrated their right to hy an overwhelming victory on Georgetown Field yesterday afternoon.

Out of the twelve track and field events on the program the Central boys won eleven firsts and scored almost twice as many points as the three other schools combined. Overhead the day was an ideal one for the games. The sekies were blue, the atmosphere soft and balmy, and there was scarcely a breath of wind stirring. But the track was in bad condition, the rain of the previous day having left it a sea of mud, and the going was very poor. Con-sequently the time in most of the events was only fair.

At the hour set for the first event the field was througed with the supporters of the various schools. The girls were especially in evidence. The grand stand at the north of the field was filled with them, and the Way they rooted was a caution. They waved the colors of their schools frantically, clung to each other fiercely when the bunch went down with a crash in the bicycle races, and thrilled with admiration as the strong-limbed youths sailed high over the bar in the pole vaults. Their enthusiasm was a feature of the afternoon, and it doubtless spurred on many a youngster to fight esperately for victory.

Probably the most exciting events of the afternoon were the bicycle races. There were spills without number, and it was a marvel that some of the riders were not killed or mained. But all escaped, with only slight bumps and bruises Little Adams, of Easterns, won the only first scored by his school, by taking the one-mile in a beautiful finish, beating Weaver, of Business, by a wheel, with Mannakee, of Western, a close third. Plant, of Central, won the two-mile bicycle in a hot finish from Mannakee, of Western, who fell early in the race. but pluckily remounted and caught the bunch after losing half a lap.

The all-round work of Curtiss, of Central, was the feature of the meet. This placky youngster won three firsts, a second and a third, scoring nineteen points for his school. He broke the High School record in pole vaulting with ease, clearing the bar at 9 feet 4 1-2 inches, and also won the hurdle race in good style.

Farrow came next, scoring three firsts for histeam. He won the hundred-yard dash in fine style from Young, took the broad jump with ease, and, to the surprise of all, captured the quarter-mile event in a canter from Stuart, who was looked upon as

Stuart had no trouble in taking the halfmile and mile, coming homefully a hundred yards ahead of the bunch in the latter
